

Colorado School of Mines Golden, Colorado

Housing, Food Services and Student Union Study

JBA Incorporated and Hanbury Evans Wright Viattas (HEWV) teamed to study various options for improvements for the School of Mines Housing and Food Services Operations. Driven by the need to improve on campus residences, the study included the various options to renovate current housing and building new housing. Each housing option included multiple ways to address dining and food services. These needs were balanced among the needs of the remaining programs in the University Student Center. The team studied all student life programs and provided recommendations for renovation to the Student Center, Residence Halls, Dining Facilities, and ancillary buildings. The Precinct Plan included a detailed financial analysis to determine the impacts of each potential option

JBA's role on the project was programmer, planner, project manager and project architect.
