Indiana University Northwest Gary, Indiana

Northwest Campus Master Plan Programming and Space Analysis

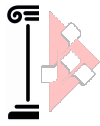

Consulting services included the refinement of the existing space inventory, development of a space planning model, and support services to help the campus create and incorporate a space management process for the University. The campus is similar to a community college. Its students are non-traditional in nature with most working full time, average age around 26, 50% classes in the evening, and no residences. IUN's students have different needs than traditional residential campuses.

JBA's role on the project was programmer, planner, project manager and project architect.
